If you noticed our new logo on the cover, you may have suspected our Community Foundation has made some significant changes recently. After a year of strategic planning, we have transformed our grantmaking to make a bigger impact with our nonprofit partners, and have expanded our leadership role in the economic development of the Capital Region.

We are most proud of the remarkable grantmaking changes we’ve made this year. Launching our first “capacity building” program, we’re supporting 18 nonprofit partners to strengthen their infrastructure through fundraising training, board and staff development, strategic planning and much more. At the same time, we raised the bar with our “Impact Grants,” awarding a record number of larger grants to support projects that will truly move the needle in our communities. In total, we awarded nearly $1 million this year for capacity building and impact projects, and those grantees are highlighted in this report. In addition, we expect to grant approximately $3 million this year from funds that support specific charities and causes.

Within the broad economic development arena, our Community Foundation recognized that we are in a unique position to play a leadership role in building vibrant communities to attract and retain the talent so critical to our workforce. Currently we are leading several “placemaking” initiatives in our region’s urban core. By reimagining and investing in public spaces like riverfronts and parks and the activities within them, our Community Foundation will create the kind of vibrant communities in which people want to live and work. You can read more about our placemaking work on pages 15 and 16.

Since 1987, our Community Foundation has improved countless lives in the tri-county area by matching individual donors with causes that speak to their passions, and turning those passions into grants that support local nonprofits. We are proud of the trust we have established with our donors and with professional advisors who confidently refer their clients to our Community Foundation. We look forward to our continued partnership with each one of you, and we invite new partners to join us as we transform the possibilities of our region into vibrant realities.

Who We Are
Our Community Foundation is a 501(c)(3) public charity, established in 1987 by the community, for the community. We are governed by a volunteer Board of Trustees and have seven full-time and two part-time dedicated staff members who are passionate about our community. We are located in the Marshall Street Armory in Lansing.

What We Do
The mission of the Capital Region Community Foundation is to serve the charitable needs and enhance the quality of life in Ingham, Clinton and Eaton counties. The Community Foundation's three priorities are donor services, nonprofit support and strategic projects to make our region vibrant. We currently manage over 400 named funds and hold over $90 million in assets.

Find the Fund for You

The key to having a rewarding philanthropic experience is finding the best fit for your charitable priorities, goals and personal preferences. Our Community Foundation offers a variety of fund types so you can select the option that matches your needs. How will you make an impact in our community?

...or start a special fund!

An example of a special fund through our Community Foundation is the newly established “Someone’s Watching Over Me” fund, started by a donor to help meet immediate needs of individuals in crisis. Nonprofits that work with these individuals contact the Community Foundation to advise us on who might benefit from the fund’s distributions.

I feel our family has been truly blessed, due to a combination of hard work and faith in God. It has been a family tradition to set aside a portion of our earnings to help those less fortunate than ourselves. My father taught me that sometimes helping someone in seemingly small ways at a point of transition (divorce, death of a spouse, turning from drugs or alcohol) can change lives for generations. For a long time I had a vision of starting a fund to help others in an anonymous way, yet make it tax deductible so that more people could be helped. From time to time I would work on my idea, but ran into roadblocks.

One day I told my friends at the Community Foundation of my dream, and they talked through the logistics, helped me set up a plan, and showed me how this could work. The paperwork was simple, and soon I was in a position to not only help others right away, but also to set up a plan to continue the work after I am no longer around. If you have a charitable dream, I encourage you to let the Community Foundation show you how to make that dream a reality.

When their clients give through the Community Foundation, they have the benefit of working with one organization that covers all of their charitable interests. Giving through the Community Foundation is flexible according to each client’s needs, providing options for both current and deferred gifts depending on a client’s preference.

The Community Foundation is here to support you as you seek solutions to put a client’s philanthropic vision into action. A fund at our Community Foundation also can be the beneficiary of bequests, charitable remainder and charitable lead trusts, retirement accounts and insurance policies.

After a fund has been established, our staff works with your client to fine-tune their charitable goals and make their philanthropy as meaningful as possible. We can do research, set up site visits and introduce your clients to other like-minded fundholders.

Meet John and Jewel Bos

John Bos is an estate planning attorney. He and his wife, Jewel, are advocates for endowment and members of our Legacy Society.

John Bos has been practicing law in the Lansing area for 53 years. Currently with Chalgian and Tripp, PLLC in East Lansing, he often recommends that his clients establish an endowment with the Community Foundation.

“If clients give any indication that they have charitable interests, I recommend the Community Foundation,” John said. “I especially like the option of creating endowment funds. With endowment, the funds get maintained to provide benefits to charities for eons, for infinity. I like that concept.”

Diversity of giving options is another thing the Bos’s like about the Community Foundation.

“There are so many diverse things you can do through the foundation,” Jewel said. “You can direct your contribution or endowment to certain areas.”

The Bos’s have established both the East Lansing Public Library Endowment Fund, benefiting the East Lansing Public Library, and the John E. and Jewel T. Bos Charitable Fund, benefiting multiple local charities.

“We believe in the charities that provide tangible benefits to our community,” John said. “We like to know what they do with our contributions.”

Through the estate planning process, John helps clients maximize benefits to families as well as the charities they support. Our Community Foundation is most grateful to John and Jewel for all they do for our community and to John for believing in the Foundation as a way to help his clients realize their charitable goals.
When you make a bequest or other planned gift to our Community Foundation, you are invited to join our Legacy Society with others who want to ensure a future for the causes they care about. You can fulfill your own legacy through:

- Wills, trusts or estate plans
- Charitable gift annuities
- Life insurance policies
- Retirement fund assets
- Charitable remainder trusts
- Charitable lead trusts

After you have made your planned gift, please notify us of your plan so we can include you in our Legacy Society. It costs you nothing today!

As a beneficiary of your planned gift, our Community Foundation is entrusted with the responsibility of carrying out your wishes when you are gone. We have an ongoing commitment to recognize and address community needs and take advantage of high-impact funding opportunities while staying true to your charitable vision.

You are welcome to remain anonymous in your giving should you wish to do so. However, participation in the Legacy Society can be a rewarding experience and inspire others to give.

Joan Bauer’s Legacy

Joan Bauer is a Lansing icon. It would be tough to find someone who doesn’t know and love her. She’s the kind of person others aspire to be: caring, generous and helpful to all.

Her resume may as well be titled, “Life of Service to Others,” including Director of Women’s Programs at the YWCA, Director of Volunteer Services at Ingham Medical Center (now McLaren), member of the Lansing City Council, Michigan House of Representatives, and now part time at Lansing Community College. In addition, Joan has served as a dedicated volunteer, board member and philanthropist for countless area nonprofits through the years.

The apple doesn’t fall far from the tree. Joan’s parents were teachers and stressed giving back to the community, caring about other people and being a good citizen.

“There wasn’t a huge value on getting more money to get more things,” Joan said. “We appreciated how fortunate we were. Charity comes from a sense of gratitude for what you have – and compassion for others who don’t.”

While her passion for helping the less fortunate is paramount, she cares about everyone in her community. It’s no wonder she’s philanthropic and values charitable planning.

“My late husband, Doug Langham, and I lived our entire married life in Lansing,” said Joan. “I love this community and wanted the organizations I care about to be supported beyond my lifetime. My estate plan gift to the Community Foundation will make sure that happens.”

Joan’s history with the Community Foundation started when we were founded 30 years ago, as she served on the grant review committee and later on the Board of Trustees. She knows and trusts the Foundation.

“When I thought about leaving my legacy, it meant a lot to me that the Community Foundation would benefit my community forever,” Joan said. “The Foundation meets immediate needs in the community, and makes an even bigger impact through an endowment that protects my gift forever. With some organizations, you don’t know that’s going to be the case.”

The death of her husband reiterated the importance of having an estate plan and revisiting it often.

“You don’t know what’s going to happen,” Joan said. “If you care where your assets go when you die, take the time to plan.”

The Foundation meets immediate needs in the community, and makes an even bigger impact through an endowment that protects my gift forever.

Why create one?
When a non-profit organization establishes an endowment fund at our Community Foundation, the agency is taking a big step toward financial sustainability. Earnings and appreciation from the fund create a source of perpetual support the agency can count on, year after year.

Why fund one?
Donors to the fund rest assured that their own cash gifts, bequests and other planned gifts to the agency's endowment are protected by the Foundation, helping to ensure the organization lasts for generations to come.

New Capacity Building Program

Our Community Foundation made a bold decision this year to invest in 18 nonprofit partners with grants totaling almost $300,000 to help them build capacity. The term “capacity building” refers to initiatives that help build the infrastructure of nonprofit organizations, increasing their ability to better meet their mission.

Many of our nonprofit partners expressed that their greatest need is help with fundraising – learning how to raise funds more effectively in order to provide greater services and organizational stability. We recognized the opportunity to help these agencies “learn to fish” for sustainable funding, and rely less on short-term grants.

Other nonprofit partners received capacity building grants for board or staff development, strategic planning, information technology, human resources and marketing plans.

Our Community Foundation also provided our 18 nonprofit partners with an additional grant for a holistic organization assessment by a consultant from Nonprofit Network. Based on a lengthy organizational survey, the assessment highlighted both strengths and opportunities for improvement of each organization.

Monetary grants are just the beginning of the Foundation's capacity building support of our partners. Our staff has established personal relationships with each nonprofit's staff, and we will continue to be a resource and provide coaching throughout the grant year and beyond to ensure success!

1 Nonprofit Network – itself a nonprofit organization – specializes in providing management support and capacity building services for nonprofits throughout Michigan and beyond.
The capacity building grants of the Community Foundation go beyond financial support. They are investing in the future of nonprofits. Their expert guidance and support will allow us to grow our organization in a way otherwise not possible.

Yvonne Fleener,
Business Development Manager
Origami Brain Injury Rehabilitation Center
In 2017 our Community Foundation awarded a record number of larger “Impact Grants” for strategic projects that will move the needle at nonprofit organizations and in communities throughout the region. Our 2017 Impact Grants are listed on the facing page.

We work with hundreds of donors who trust us to make an impact with their philanthropic dollars, and our Board of Trustees is passionate about creating transformative, lasting change for nonprofits and the communities we serve.

Our Community Foundation must do more than simply fill a gap in a nonprofit’s operating budget. We want to help the nonprofit meet its strategic goals.

To accomplish this, we applied our “impact criteria” to all regular grantmaking, increased our minimum grant to $10,000, and maintained our maximum grant of $75,000. Every grantee needed to use the grant to fulfill or leverage a 1:1 cash match, and their project had to meet at least one of our impact criteria:

- Increase the long-term impact of an organization or program, not to provide cash assistance for ongoing operations;
- Help nonprofits significantly increase their ability to reach underserved populations, not simply serve more people;
- Support innovative, collaborative efforts that have the potential for transformative and sustainable change.

Our Community Foundation still helps small organizations get stronger.

We recognize that many small organizations are young and need help just to stabilize and grow. That’s why we created a new Mini-Grant opportunity ($2,500-5,000), which we then submitted to our Donor Advised Fundholders and Youth Action Committee for consideration. Mini-Grants can support regular, ongoing programming, but projects that meet Impact Criteria have a greater chance of funding.

Placemaking

We’re listening to residents to make our region vibrant.

Placemaking is a collective community vision and process of re-imagining public spaces and the arts and activities that create culture and a social environment.

Public spaces can include waterfronts, parks, plazas, markets, etc. Placemaking helps create attachment to our community and is proven to have a “multiplier effect” that attracts a talented workforce, employers and jobs.

In February 2017, the Community Foundation launched our Penny for Your Thoughts campaign - a community-wide contest to make our region’s urban core more attractive.

We asked residents of the Greater Lansing area to submit their ideas to improve public spaces along the Michigan Avenue corridor, from the Capitol to Abbot Road and a quarter mile north and south of the avenue.

Residents submitted 59 ideas in our six categories:

• Arts, culture and entertainment
• Parks and outdoor structures
• Public buildings and destinations
• Land and building development/rehabilitation
• Waterfront
• Streetscapes and landscaping
Our committee of urban planners and placemaking experts screened 59 ideas from our Penny for Your Thoughts contest, then made recommendations based on the feasibility, creativity and potential impact of the projects.

Plans for developing the downtown Lansing riverfront are underway and include improved watercraft access and docking, enhanced parks and fishing areas, artwork and creative lighting, public seating areas with fireplaces, and an outdoor “classroom” on the riverbank. Other ideas for improvements are encouraged from the public. The foundation will focus on areas between the Cherry Hill boat launch and the Brenke Fish Ladder.

A new urban market is a potential project being explored and may be modeled after similar markets in downtown Grand Rapids and Flint. The foundation is currently exploring business models and possible locations on or near the Michigan Avenue corridor.

Our committee also recommended several smaller projects along the avenue including twinkle lights, painted crosswalks, murals, and a portable parklet. Stay tuned!

Our Community Foundation Act

Our Community Foundation is pleased to have partnered with the Council of Michigan Foundations in supporting the introduction and passage of Michigan’s Community Foundation Act. This act authorizes municipalities, school boards and public libraries to transfer assets to a community foundation in order to establish an endowment fund. For example, after selling an unused asset, such as a closed golf course, a city can now use the sale proceeds to establish an endowment fund with the community foundation that will provide ongoing financial support for the city’s parks and recreation.
